

ADVERTISING SPOTLIGHT O’Rourke Reid Law Firm

Legal services tailored to meet individual demands

O’ROURKE Reid Law Firm is pleased to announce the opening of their newly completed offices at 17-19 York Place, Leeds.

These new offices measuring 25,000 sq ft, will offer enhanced client facilities with state-of-the-art meeting rooms and conferencing facilities which will augment the high level of customer service that they continue to provide to clients in the UK and Ireland.

O’Rourke Reid opened their UK office in Leeds in 1998. After 10 years of progress providing a comprehensive multi-disciplinary service to their extensive portfolio of clients on both sides of the Irish Sea, the time has come for them to move to larger premises.

O’Rourke Reid Law Firm was established in 1982 in Dublin. During that quarter of a century, the firm has expanded to become a leading provider of Legal Services and Risk Management solutions in both the UK and Ireland.

According to Simon Rea, Senior Associate and the Head of Residential and Investment Property, O’Rourke Reid provide a bespoke service to all their clients.

“No two matters are the same, every case has a unique feature and that is you. Therefore we tailor our services to meet your demands. Each transaction is individually assessed by the team in charge of your case and practical and appropriate solutions are recommended to you,” said Simon.

O’Rourke Reid offer a number of vital services to both businesses and individuals in the areas of property, such as commercial and residential in the fields of investment and development.

Simon states that “in my Department, our Residential team assists clients through all the stages of buying their first home or upgrading to a larger home. We also deal with all aspects of Landlord and Tenant affairs in these sectors and can assist people in any types of disputes that may arise between both parties”.

The Investment Property Department has established dedicated teams to deal with large-scale transactions without compromising on both client care and the quality of service to clients.

According to Simon, “the service we offer throughout all our departments is at all times confidential and designed to protect and enhance the reputation of either your company or yourself.

“Our Litigation Department can assist clients in personal injury matters or fatal accident claims that may occur to you or your family, along with cases regarding medical and/or professional negligence.”

The department also deals with both Commercial and Defendant Litigation matters and has wide experience of working on behalf of leading insurance clients and brokers in both the UK and Ireland.

The firm also deals with insurance matters for both the insurers and the insured.

in that they possess cross-qualified solicitors in all jurisdictions and possess experienced professionals who are dedicated to serving clients.

All solicitors in the firm take part in courses and seminars, both externally and in-house, that keep them informed of changes and developments in their specific legal field.

Simon believes that “in today’s ever changing world, it is important that we keep abreast of legal developments that affect the advice we give our clients”.

Simon adds that the firm’s “close working relationship with our Dublin and Belfast offices means that we can provide additional services to you on both sides of the Irish Sea from our Banking, Corporate Law, Debt Recovery, Employment Law and Private Client Departments.

“We are a true Anglo-Irish firm in every sense of the term and with daily flights from both Dublin and Belfast to Leeds, we are within easy reach of you for one to one meetings, whether you are in the UK or in Ireland”.
